attentive readers must be aware. They left this Government because of disagreement, as they affirmed, between the national and that they had discovered a better mode, and put it in practice, although as to mere form | indefinite, thus: the difference is small, except in its increasing the central power by two important advances in its authority-first, in increasing the Presidential term to six years for four, and next in giving the Cabinet officers the right of debate on the floors of Congress. This came with a queer grace from thoso who proposed to restrain Federal authority. No matter about this. When the machine was built it was shiney, lacquered and gilt gingerbread. It was, in their estimation, as complete a piece of workmanship as ever was made. In the language of one of these statesmen (?) A rich controversy has grown out of it, and we can conclude that the "sick Richmond to attend on, is Governor Brown. The President has prescribed for the Governor in a letter which reminds us of the tinction. Jeff. argues the constitution-

The main, if not only purpose for which independent States form Unions or Confederations, is to complete the power of the several members in such manner as to form one united force in all relations with foreign powers, whether in peace or war. Each State, amply competent to administer and control its own domestic Government, yet too feeble to successfully meet powerful nations, seeks safety by uniting with other States in like condition, and by delegating to some common agent the combined strength of all in order to scenre advantageous commercial relations in peace, and to carry on hostilities with effect in war.

Beautiful! Sweet are the uses of adversity! Jeff doesn't add the benefits accruing from breaking up these "Unions" just about the time they are strong enough to repel invasion, carry on war, or establish commercial relations. It is true, however, and a rare admission from Jeff-a hint to Georgia that if she doesn't like the conscription she had better, or one of these "Unions" (to-wit: C. S. A.) will, to establish commercial relations-i. c., coerce the rebellious State.

Jeff says that instead of setting forth the constitutionality of the act, he would have very little difficulty in establishing that "the passage of the law was not only necessary, but absolutely indispensable." Well, that now is more in character. If the law is indispensable, drive ahead, and don't stay to bother about the farce of a Constitution.

After his rebellion against the Federal Constitution, all the talk about respect for the Confederate Constitution is nonsense. It is as ridiculous as the fellow who, hav lng killed his mother and father, replied to

In the course of this letter he lels out some more facts, which we commend to all who believe in a peaceable dissolution of the Union, and a kind of millennlum, wherein the lion of the C. S. The army is flanked on the right by the lewer end of White Oak Swamp, and on the left most cffectually by the James river and the gun-There was a rain storm all day Wednesday and part of Thursday, which was intensely disagreeable to all, but latterly the weather has been pleasanl, and everything looks bright and hopeful. The supplies that have been landed of good food and coffee and sugar have been very ac-

The enemy, on Thursday morning, a about nine o'clock, commenced an attack with cavalry, artillery and infantry, on the rear of the army, and it was feared that another heavy engagement was about to take place. The whole army was immediately drawn up in line of battle. By a reconnoissance, however, it was discovered that the attacking force was not very considerable, and Gen. Davidson, with his brigade, was ordered to attempt to cut their off and capture or disperse them. He suc ceeded in taking a number of prisoners and six guns. The rest sought safety by skedaddling, and were pursued by our troops four or five miles, with much loss The first firing was into the woods in front f the lines of the army, as the rebels evidently supposed that we were occupying the woods in force.

The Monitor, Galena, Naugatuck, and the esidue of the gunboats threw a large quantity of shot and shell over our army into rebel occupants. The enemy, however, con-tinued casual firing until four o'clock in the afternoon, when the bold dash of Gen. Davidson and the general ineligibility of the place caused them to retreat.

The anniversary of the nation's inde pendence was celebrated by the army ap propriately. The following exercises were rdered for the day by Gen. McClellan: "A national salute an noon at the head uarters of each army corps; immediately thereafter bands to play appropriate na-

There is this consolation that in each engagement we have come of victorious, and that the surety of getting into Richmond is now tenfold greater than it was a week ago. Our losses have saddened, but not discouraged. Our men enlisted in the war expecting to fight, expect ing losses; they have fought, and they will continue to fight till the enemy are beaten and confess the victory, till the rebellion is cleanly wiped out and the Union restored. They will do all this. What can they do more? Confidence in General McClellan is increased by the recent battles, and this is saying everything. What more can be said? A few days will reveal the wisdom of General McClellan's plan, and that changing the base of operations was the only plan to be adopted, carrying with it a guar

Something of a flurry was caused here on Monday evening by reports, received from General Brannan, that the enemy, in force variously estimated from two thousand to four thousand, had collected at Grahamsthe woods and beyond them, unaking any ville on the mainland, about two miles in position in the vicinity very unpleasant to the rear of Port Royal Ferry, and were prethe rear of Port Royal Ferry, and were preparing to cross the creek for an attack upon Beaufort. It was understood that General Hunter immediately made a request to Commodore Dupont that a gunboat should be sent up Broad river and Whale Branch to operate round Port Royal Island, and detroy any rafts or boats which the enemy might have prepared in the many small reeks and inlets permeating this swampy ground. An expedition is also about being fitted out, consisting of life-boats and lauuches, for the purpose of thoroughly scouring all the shallow waters in the

This view is confirmed by the fact that within the past week strong reconnoitering parties of rebels have penetrated down the Savannah river toward Fort Pulaski and the adjacent islands-one ompany of the Forty-cighth New York, on icket duty at Daufuskie, having counted, a Sunday night last, as many as twentyive camp fires in the direction of our abandoned batteries at Bird and Venus Points. HARASSING THE SEACOAST.

General Hunter, I am informed, is makng preparations, in conjunction with the naval forces under Commodore Dupont, for series of boat and gunboat expeditions, to harass the whole seacoast of Georgia and South Carolina, seizing every town and vilage accessible by water communication and establishing thereat posts which will remain until a superior force of the enemy shall make retreat necessary. In this man-ner it is hoped that all loyal slaves of rebel masters within our reach may be afforded an opportunity of taking the benefit of the confiscation act, should that much-needed neasure receive the sanctiou of President This course will also have the effect of compelling the rebels to keep an army of observation along the coast three or four times outnumbering the strength of General Hunter's command; for, with the quick facilities of water transit, 500 men can keer 5,000 busy in guarding any line to which gunboats or ship-launches, carrying howitzers, can have access.

REBEL DESIGNS AGAINST FORT PULASKI. As for any rebel demonstrations in the vicinity of Fort Pulaski, they merit little attention—the swampy character of the country, intersected by innumerable creeks rendering it almost wholly impossible that any ordnance sufficient to reduce the fort should be transported to the banks of Lazaretto Creek from Savannah. The demonstration now being made as if to reconnoiter the works for a second bombardment are doubtless only a part of the scheme for diverting attention from Charleston. Brigadier General Alfred II. Terry, of Connecticut, who is in command at Hilton Head and Pulaski, is confident of his abundant ability to repel any attack with the garrison now under his command.

WASHINGTON, July 9. We learn from Warrenton that a reconnoissance was made on Tuesday, by the First Maine Cavalry, as far as Waterloo, on the Rappahannock. Two or three miles from the river they descried a regiment of rebel cavalry in the distance, who made no fort to dispute the passage of the stream. Our pickets now extend to within two miles of Warrenton Springs.

Gen. Lew Wallace was serenaded last night in Washington. In his little speech he spoke strongly of employing and arming slaves, and for quartering upon the enemy instead of guarding his property.

The firing was from six field pieces, on the opposite side of the river, a little below the Federal army. The steamer was aground at the time. Our gun poats went down and drove off the rebels. A reconucitering party was sent out yes terday and found the rebel pickets within one mile of ours, which leads to the opinion that another battle is at hand.

The mission of Reverdy Johnston to New Orleans is with a view to settle all claims, and to pass all laws and regulations referring to the relations between the foreigners and the civil authorities of New Orleans It is even surmised that he will gradually absorb all the civil powers now entrusted into the hands of General Butler, who will Georgetown, belonging to a rank secession retain the military command in the place. [Special to the Times.]

WASHINGTON, July 9. Evidences have reached the Government of a well planned rebel conspiracy of a nost extended character, which was to have burst upon the country simultaneously with the battles at Richmond. The rebel leaders confidently relied on shaking off McClellan and annihilating his army by their superior numbers, and this success was to be immediately followed by a rising in Tennessee, Kentucky, and Maryland, and the advance of Jeff Davis upon Washington in the midst of the confusion. The families of rebel who are living in Kentucky, while their heads are in opposition at Richmond, were fully informed of the scheme, and boldly and imprudently let it out. The facts were communicated to the War Department and Harrodsburg, Ky., on the 8th inst.

to General Boyle, of Kentucky, and prepa rations were made to defeat the mov but the utter failure of the rebels to break the power of the Union army now threatening Richmond, makes it impossible for them to put their plan in motion.

Vicksburg, July 7, via Memphis 9th. The mortars from above and below continue o shell the city. The rebels have a number of seige guns mounted on field carriages, which they transfer from point to point, as the previous position was made natenable by the fire of our guns. Gen. Williams has planted a field battery on a point opposite the city, which causes considerable annoyance to the rebel gunners.

The work on the canal is progressing rapidly. Large additions have been made to the number of contrabands employed.

Letter from Fortress Monroe. Special Correspondence of the Philadelphia Pr

FORTRESS MONROE, July 6, 1862. In the great multiplicity of facts which it was necessary to crowd in my letter printed this morning, I find I have overlooked one or two items of importance First as to the siege guns. I never saw, and never saw any one who did see, any other siege guns in the army of the Potomac than eight or ten long eighty-pound Parrotts. These were mounted in battery on the extreme right of the army, and all day, Friday, June 27, did splendid work in shelling the rebels across the Chickahominy. These guns were all saved. I saw the whole of them late on Sunday after noon, five miles across the White Oak Swamp bridge, on ground which the enemy did not nold for forty-eight hours afterwards. They were rapidly proceeding towards the James river. Your readers

Then as to wounded relatives of people n the North, every battle-field and hospital which was formed for the reception of its onnded during the retreat is in possession of the enemy. If a soldier was killed his body now lies on rebel groun l. If he was wounded in such a way that he could not walk, there being no ambulances to remove iny wounded men, he, of course, fell into the hands of the enemy. If he were wounded so that he could walk without help, or by the aid of a crutch, or by leaning on a friend's shoulder, even though his weak ness compelled him to rest at every half mile, his safety may be relied upon. The army, is the aggregate, marched very slowly-out ten miles in twenty-four hours-and these wounded men came straggling to the hospital boats at Harrison's House during all my stay there, and no doubt they are straggling in still. From the nature of the wound the safety of the men can be as-certained. As to well men, the mails will soon be opened, and they, of course, at the first opportunity, will bring home letters telling their whereabouts.

Every regiment in the army, with scarce ly an exception, was engaged in one or another of the week's battles, and all did bravely. The troops have the most perfect confidence in their generals, and they all deserve it; for a braver set of officers never commanded an army. The men almost worship McClellan, and would do even imossibilities if he commanded them.

The troops, too, are united in sentiment on one other point: a firm belief in the inutility of Congressional criticism and cen-sure of McClellan's acts. When they are doing their best they cannot bear to be arrested yesterday, carrying a rebel mail told that they could do better were they only to try.

Pennsylvania troops, too, have at last Richmond from nearly all the towns in the wrung from unwilling pens in rival States valley. glorious conduct of the Reserves; the heroic ported back by the committee, with the recommendation that they lie upon the table. XXXVIIth Congress-lst Session. WASHINGTON, July 10. SENATE.

The President pro tem, laid before the Senate, a communication from the War Department, transmitting copies of all instructions to the Generals in the army, in pursuance of the act of Congress, of August 5th, 1861, relative to freeing the slaves of rebels.

Mr. Wilson, of Mass., from the Military Committee, reported back the House joint resolution, authorizing the Secretary of War, to furnish extra clothing to wounded and other soldiers, passed.

Mr. Doolittle, from the Indian Committee, reported back the bill relative to the trust onds abstracted by the late Secretary of the Interior, passed.

Mr. Chandler, from the Committee on Commerce; reported a bill providing for appointment of surveyors, &c.
Mr. McDougal offered a resolution that the President be requested to have prepared a full report of the foreign and domestic trade and commerce of California, and Oregon and Washington Territory, to be submitted at the part session.

mitted at the next session, laid over.

Mr. Anthony introduced a bill to define Richmond.

en number of Brigadier and Major GenerMr. Chaj als in the army.

The bill provides for a reduction in the umber of Brigadier and Major Generals. was referred to the Military Committe. Mr. Chandler called upon the resolution alling for all the old orders issued by Gen. McClellan, his correspondence, the number of his force, &c. He then modified the resolution so as to request the President to furnish this information if not incompatable with the public interests.

Mr. Wright said he had been mortified at, and regretted, the tone of the Senator's (Chandler's) speech, when he (Chandler) ffered this resolution. It was not to his (Wright's) taste in the hour of the country's trouble, to make any charges against, or throw any obstacle in the way of Generals in the field. In the opinon of Senator Chandler, Gen. McClellan must have committed an atrocious crime, worthy of the severest punishment of the law. General McClellan has not heen a newspaper General, written up by correspondents, but he lias been most indecently denounced by them; yet he has never made any reply. He (Wright) would not go back to the operations of General McClellan on the but would venture to say that General McClellan's ten days' campaign front of Richmond, fighting an infuriated enemy would arouse as much admiration among the people of foreign ountries as it has awakened confidence and hope among our own people. He (Wright) was in favor of the vigorous prosecution of the war, and in favor of a strong confiscation bill, but he would do nothing to deride the true Union men of the country. This was not the place to pass such resolutions as these, sanctioned as they were by the speech of the Senator from Michigan. If President Lincoln can trust Gen. McClellan the battles of the country.

Mr. Chandler thought that the Senator from Maryland (Wright) must have misof the country has been filled with denun- tion of the cargo ciations of the Secretary of War for whal they said was a military crime on his part -not sending reinforcements to Gen. Mc-Clellan. It was intended that this assault upon the Secretary of War should be deadly and lead to his removal. He denied that Secretary Stauton was guilty of the crime, and he simply called for the evidence in the case. It was plain to every man in the land that when the army was sent off to the peninsula, there should have been a force sufficient retained to defend the capital. He had the evidence of nine Major Generals, taken before the mmittee on the Conduct of the War, in which they said it was absolutely necessary to retain a force here for the defense of

of Washington.
Gen. Richardson, in his sworn statement, aid it would require 40,000 men and a corps of 60,000 men to stop the movements the enemy above or below the city. Gen. Franklin thought that from 35,000 50,000 men would be necessary, and the others said 50,000 to 75,000 men must be left here for the proper defense of the place. When Gen. McClellan went to Fortress Monroe, it was found he had not left a solinary regiment here, except the 19th, and had not left a solitary gun on wheels, for the defense of the capital. Had this gone on, the enemy would have taken capital before the month of April But the President interposed and stopped it, and kept a corps for the defense of the capital. Was it not proper that these facts should go to the country? Was it not right that the people should know what the facts really are. The President and Secretary Stanton sent every solitary man, every musket and sabre, and every bayonet to the army of the Peninsular that could possibly be spared from the defense of the capital. Nothing was refused to that army that could possibly be spared. Was it not fair then that the press should know that the man, Secretary Stanton, who was opposed to the army, but who was in favor of marching the army straight Ma. Lane, of Kansas, moved to postpone the further consideration of the resolution until December.

Mr. Trumbull was in favor of the passage of the resolution. Let the facts go to the people of the country. He was willing to trust all the people with the facts. Mr. Wilson, of Massachusetts, said he ould not vote on any speech that had been made on the subject, but simply on the resolution calling for the facts, which ought to

that the issue was made, it ought to be passed, that the facts might come forth. Mr. Henderson thought this resolution was going to have the effect to make parties in the country in regard to the operations of the Generals in the field. If reinforcements are sent to McClellan, the rebel Captal can be taken in a month. Cease, then, these mischievions resolutions, which only tend to excite party feeling. If any Gen eral is incompetent, let the President remove him at once; but he had seen no incompetency in front of Richmond. We are always apt to underrate the force of the rebels. We must have more energy and a larger force, or we shall never put down this rebellicn. It is useless to close our eyes to the fact that the rebels are as strong as we are, and the people may as well know the fact, the newspapers having been saying for months that the Southern army is starving. Is it possible that there is such ignorance as to the South, the rebels can be starved out? It bed his house and mardered him. is perfectly idle to attempt to conceal the facts from the people. They ought to know everything connected with this war. The South are as well furnished with ton, of everything of value. weapons of war as we are and they will spire a little more soul in the country, let tack from these marauders. them inhale energies to suppress the rebellion, let the whole country join as one, and let certain leaders of the Republican party cease their schemes of emancipation, not but that the believed them honest in their views, but he believed they were mistake with the believed they were with the believed they were with the were with the believed they were with the world with the believed they were with the world with 800 KEGS NAILS AND BRADS FOR SALE BY WELLER & PARKER. taken, there had not a been suffibient sidered serious.

confidence placed in the men of the border State he Henderson had heard and that the men from the border States were not as loyal as they should be, besause they were so much attached they to slavery. The border States had but their share of men in the Union army, and in Missouri they were ready to put in the field 12,000 men asked for by the recent call, and if this was not account. call, and if this was not enough, Missouri would put into the field 62,000 more. And in regard to the charges brought against Ky, he believed by the neutrality adopted by the Union men of that State, saved her to the Union. The schemes of emancipation might as well be postponed until De ember, because nothing can be done until the serried ranks of the rebels are broken up, and he did not believe that they were oing to be broken up before that time. But he was not prepared to call loyal men Abolitionists, because he believed most of them were sincere in their belief. Loyal men in the South certainly cannot complain as much of the Abolitionists as they can of the rebels, for the latter have taken 50 per cent. of the slaves from Missouri. He was not in favor of arming the negroes. The slaves never could be made soldiers; but he would have the slaves used at every kind of labor. He would vote for the resolution of the Senator from Michigan (Mr. Chaudler), for the people might as well have all the facts now; but he was very sorry to hear charges of disloyalty laid against Gen. McClellan.

Mr. Chandlder said that he had made no evening. charge of that kind, or anything that would bear such a construction. He believed that great mistakes had been made, but he charged nothing further.

Mr. Henderson was glad to hear that, and he wanted it to go to the country that there was no suspicion of disloyally in the minds of any one against Gen. McClellan. He put the most perfect confidence in him.

Mr. Saulsbury offered an amendment to the resolution, so as to include the number of troops under Gen. Fremont and Gen. Banks at the date of Gen. McClellan's departure for the l'eninsula; also the numbers f troops in and around Washington; also the number of troops between Washington and the Rappahannock; also the number of troops actually in service under Gen. Mc-Clellan in the recent engagements before Mr. Chandler accepted the amendment. Mr. Trumbull said he was astohished that Sehators were so united traising McClellan, and were yet so unwilling to hear any different opinion concerning him

The Senator from Maryland (Wright), with strange forgetfulness, says that General McClellan has not defended himself in the newspapers. Has that Senator read the papers? The papers have been full of the praises of General McClellan, and have great strategic still and have great strategic skill, and how he was drawing the rebels into a trap, &c. General McClellan was placed in command more than a year ago of all the army.

Mr. Henderson had been told that Gen

McClellan was to take command of tke

army, and remain in one position, not only during the fall but all the winter, without making an altack upon the enemy. HOUSE. Mr. Lovejoy asked but failed to receive onsent to introduce a resolution, instructing the Committee on Ways and Means to banks from interfering with treasury notes to the serious injury of the public credit. The House passed the Senate resolution o suspend all payments under the act of March last, to secure to officers and men actually employed in the Western Department, their pay, bounty, and pensions, and appoints three commissioners to examine and redccm all claims, and report to the Secretary of War.

The Senate bill for the better government of the navy was passed. The House passed a resolution of thanks Com. Foote.
